THE METHODIST JUBILEE.

WORK OF THE CONFERENCE.

GRAND SUNDAY-SCHOOL DEMONSTRATION

Over Twenty-Five Thousand Children Gathered Together in the Churches—Interesting Addresses on the Sunday-School Work.

[Reported for the Baltimore Sun.]

Ministers attending the Methodist Centennial Conference preached yesterday and last night in the churches of their faith in all parts of the city, besides a number of other Protestant churches. As is usual in cases where a stranger is invited to occupy the pulpit to preach, the conversations were generally large. Among the ministers who officiated were the following: Rev. F. Merrick, D. D., of the Ohio Wesleyan University, at the First Methodist Episcopal Church South; Rev. Buckley, of New York, and Rev. Dr. J. B. McFerrin, of Nashville, Tenn., at Asbury; at Madison M. E. Church; Bishop E. G. Andrews and Rev. Dr. Wm. Cooper; at St. Paul's M. E. Church South; Bishop Wiley and Rev. A. H. Southerland, at Broadway; Rev. Dr. Hargrove, of Richmond, Va., of the M. E. Church South, and Fowler, of the M. E. Church; at Madison Avenue M. E. Church; Rev. George H. Whitney and Rev. J. W. Lindsay; at Asbury M. E. Church; Rev. G. R. Browder, of Kentucky, and Rev. Dr. Hunter, of Virginia, at the Associate Reformed Church; Rev. H. H. Ridgway and Rev. G. R. Crooks, at Christ Church; Rev. Dr. Brown, at the Memorial Church; Rev. Karl Gerhart, D. D., at the First Lutheran Church; Rev. Dr. A. J. Kynett, at Light Street Methodist Church.

Saturday's Proceedings.

As the session of the Methodist Centennial Conference progresses, the interest manifested does it become, and Mt. Vernon Place M. E. Church, where the body assembles, is crowded at times to overflowing. On Saturday the most intense interest pervaded the entire audience as the lives of the early pioneers referred to the Methodist pioneers and their work, and the influence of Methodism and its power among the masses. The influences extended throughout the houses, and touches and responses at that time joined in a chorus of clapping of hands and shouts of approval. The inspiring effect of such a happy reunion among Methodists of the world, as the assembled body, composed, as it is, of leading Methodists throughout the country, is expected to be a great influence upon the churches of the Methodist connection, and as predicted by many of the ablest addresses and speeches referred to the Methodist pioneers and their work, and the influence of Methodism and its power among the masses. The influences extended throughout the houses, and touches and responses at that time joined in a chorus of clapping of hands and shouts of approval. The inspiring effect of such a happy reunion among Methodists of the world, as the assembled body, composed, as it is, of leading Methodists throughout the country, is expected to be a great influence upon the churches of the Methodist connection, and as predicted by many of the ablest addresses and speeches referred to the Methodist pioneers and their work, and the influence of Methodism and its power among the masses.